As battle lines were drawn across the United States between the corporate elite and the mass of the population, the Chicago Teachers Union (CTU) and their Community allies joined together to fight for public sector education. Their demand was for an education that teaches children to think, create and challenge and not provide zombie labour for the profits machine.

Chicago tells the story of the CTU's strike and explores their successful organising agenda that empowered their members and mobilised parents, students and the wider community.

This Banner Theatre Production weaves together music, song and video footage to provide lessons and inspiration.

This is the third time that Chelmsford TUC has hosted a Banner Theatre production; they have all been a great success. Do come along and invite your friends to come too.

Tea, coffee and biscuits, donated by Thompsons Solicitors, will be available from 6.30pm.

Tickets from acoburn@blueyonder.co.uk and 01245 356210.
